Welcome to Crystal Class Newsletter:

After the amazing emerald power shown during auditions, the children have now been given their parts for the Christmas performance. We have tried very hard to ensure that everyone who wanted a speaking part got a speaking part. Could all children please practise their lines.

We are also starting swimming next week. Could we please ensure that all children bring their swimming kits on Tuesday.

This Week

It has been our week of anti-bullying where we have been focusing on being unique. As there is 'only one you' the children have been looking at what makes us who we are and how we all are different. The children have been busy designing and painting their stones so they look like little fish – each one different.

English: We have been working on our non-chronological reports. The children adopted the style of Sir David Attenborough and we have been building our descriptions of our little wild Oompa Loompa (cleverly acted out by Jack).

Maths: After a long time problem-solving with our addition and subtraction, we have now moved on to multiplication methods... wish us luck!

Projects: We are still on the hunt for excellent recipes for our Christmas stall. The children have also been developing their basketball skills, learning to dribble the ball.

Well done to our two pupils who achieved the class reading and mental maths awards this week!
