On Monday, as an introduction to our 'Inclusion Sports' term, we all took part in wheelchair basketball. It was great fun and we learnt a lot about the rules and skills needed.

This week we have begun learning about the Roman Invasion of Britain and about Boudicca's rebellion. Next week we will be writing newspaper reports about the rebellion.

In Maths we have been learning about the equivalence between fractions, decimals and percentages and using our understanding of times tables to simplify fractions. Next week we will be learning about mixed numbers and improper fractions.

As part of our topic, we will be beginning our final project becoming Roman architects and designing our own Roman town representing features that the Romans have left in Britain.
