03.02.17

We had a wonderful NSPCC Number Day on Thursday. There was a fractions frenzy in the hall when we played a game finding fractions and percentages of an amount of bean bags or tennis balls. Fantastic team work and communication skills were demonstrated as well as some brilliant mathematical reasoning.

Once we were back in class, our challenge was to total our numbers. This involved large calculations and decimals as we had numbers ranging from 3.1416 to 58,702! After displaying excellent perseverance, we found the grand total was 67335.1416.

Next week is Safer Internet Week and Children's Mental Health Week. We will be learning about where the images and content we post online can spread and how to be responsible and kind internet users. The focus for Children's Mental Health week is Kindness so we will be discussing ways in which we can be kind and support one another through difficult time.

Reminders:

Complete set Mathletics homework, practise spellings, times tables and read at least five times a week.
