Happy New Year to you all!

Learning

We have launched our new project called 'Where would you go?' The overview for this can be found on the website. We have a fabulous new learning environment with lots of different spaces for us.

To start our project, Ed the elf had left us a package in the woods that we needed to find. It was a set of characters from Frozen! We also had lots of fun exploring the ice outside and had an exciting time finding out how thick the ice was outside in the buckets and trays.

Next week

We will start thinking about places in the world that we know about on Monday so please, please send holiday photos or pictures of family members who live in other parts of the world so that we can talk about them.

We have been looking for reading resources for a while and have now bought a package that will include e-readers. I will be running a session to explain how this will work on Friday 13.1.2016 at 9am. Please come to the front door to sign in after drop off if you can make it.
