Our learning this week...

Maths

We have moved on to securing written methods for addition and subtraction including decimals. The children have also solved word problems with these.

English

The class book is finished and we will be writing our own narratives linked to the story next. This week's writing focus was poetry and we read a poem by Valerie Bloom and then wrote our own. The children enjoyed using water colours to create a backdrop for their poems on the theme of the sea.

Science

We have now finished the science unit on Evolution and Adaptation and I have enjoyed reading the children's independent studies.

Home Learning

Don't forget the first Home Learning Project is due in this week end (Google Classroom or emailed to me preferred). I will set the next project on Tuesday.
