

Amethyst Class Newsletter

Our learning this week... How Can We Make Life Fair?

Maths

We have moved onto multiplication strategies for a 4 digit number by a 2 digit number.

English

After reading Malorie Blackman's poetry narrative: 'Cloud Busting', the children have written their own poems about loneliness. I was impressed by how many ideas and themes they had taken in from the book.

Art

The artists were back from 'Dallas-Pierce-Quintero' and we worked on the next part of our art project-weaving. This is linked to the school's founder (Alexander Hosea) having been a Weaver himself. First, the children wove two different photographs of sites in Wickwar. After lunch, they worked on large group weaving projects (see the results below).

The children have been selling poppies during break times this week.

