This week we have been busy doing mock SATs assessments and I have been very impressed with how the children have handled this calmly. They are all showing good progress and I will use them to plan the next steps. We have begun researching our own lines of enquiry for History. In Science we carried out a Shadow investigation and learnt how to display results in a line graph. English this week has been planning and starting our own WW2 narrative.

Tuesday: Very exciting session for P.E this week, the children had a Bocha and Curling experience with a trained coach.

Key dates coming up:

SATs meeting Thursday 22nd Feb 9:15-10:00 am.

Coming up next week Learning focused	Way to support at home (home learning)
Safer Internet Day and Mental Health Week. Finishing and editing our WW2 Narratives. Consolidating our Maths Unit on fractions, decimals and percentages. Science- How the eye works. History-sharing home learning and research projects.	WW2 Home learning projects are due in this week but I am happy for them to be brought in, emailed in, put on google classroom, for the start of next week. Try to do one of each of the SATS busters this weekend, it has made a big difference already!

Have a good weekend and thanks for all the support you give your children at home with home learning, reading and SATs books.
