Why Should We Remember?

WW1 Propaganda posters- We researched different WW1 posters, looking at the different techniques used to persuade men to join the war. The children copied some of the styles and images used. After that, the children have been designing their own poster that is persuasive and aimed at persuading men to join up during WW1.

English

The children's stories are coming along well and most of the children have nearly finished their story. Next week they will be doing Peer Critique and self-editing before giving them to me to mark over the half term.

An Idea for Half-Term?

A parent has drawn my attention to an interesting WW1 exhibition on in Bristol that might be worth a visit during half-term if you are looking for something different to do:
