English-Writing a narrative

The stories are really shaping up well and I am enjoying reading them!

Science – Evolution and adaptation –independent research

The children have chosen an animal to research and investigate its evolutionary path and how it is adapted to suit its environment. The quality of the learning has been fantastic and the children have been fully engaged in this fascinating enquiry.

SATS

I have been very impressed with the children's attitude this week: they have remained calm, taken their time and had a good go at some tricky questions. All their learning powers have come into play to enable them to do the tests to the best of their ability (we even had someone keen to do their tests with a broken arm!). The children enjoyed relaxing with some yoga and a well-deserved party on Friday morning, when everyone had finished.
