27.11.20

It has been really lovely to be back in school this week and to be able to catch up with the children. They have all been working extremely hard and have been very helpful and kind.

English:

Our English focus this week has been on learning some key grammar skills and the children have learnt what prepositions are and have been writing prepositional phrases. They have been developing their reading skills by looking at how to answer inferential questions on a quality text.

Maths:

We have continued on the theme of multiplication and have been practising how to solve calculations by written methods. I must say that they have grasped the process very well but must continue to practise their quick recall of multiplication facts, as it is this that sometimes compromises their ability to answer correctly.

Project:

We have been investigating The Water Cycle and our key vocabulary this week stems from this learning.

COLLECTION

We have resumed our art on studying the artist Henri Rousseau and have made a start on interpreting in his style through our own collage creations.

Next week:

Miss Chalmers and I have decided to amend the times that we will be in class. As from next week, I will be in class all day on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and Miss Chalmers will be in all day on Thursday and Friday. This will not alter any timetabling and PE lessons will be on the same days.

Have a lovely weekend,
