

Emerald Class News

8th March 2019

Emerald Class Newsletter:

As we continue through our projects, we will soon be moving on to our 'Merpeople' learning. In this project, we will be comparing humans to mermaids and mermen. During this learning, we shall learn about the different parts of the human body and its scientific name. As part of the year 1 curriculum, Emerald class will be learning the more formal, scientific names for the male and female body parts. I am intending to teach this next week but I thought I would inform you in case you have any concerns or you wish to discuss this with your children prior to my teaching. After the learning, your child may come home and ask questions or tell you all about it. I thought you may appreciate the warning before the teaching.

This week:

We have been continuing our Peter Pan stories and our multiplication methods. In our projects, we have made our own Neverland map which I am hoping we will eventually be able to navigate around it once we have written our instructions for directions and our algorithm.

Thank you for all the efforts on World book day.

Here are just a couple of brilliant costumes.

