This week started with great excitement as the Playpod scrap had been refilled and was ready to use again. Lunchtimes have been really busy and fun with lots of us enjoying this.

In English we have been learning about complex sentences using subordinating conjunctions. We've been applying this new learning to write short burst thank you letters to our good dragons from our recent story writing.

In Art we finally made our masterpiece clay eyes after spending lots of time learning different skills and techniques. The dragon eyes look fantastic and are all so unique. To go with our dragon eye we have been learning about simple electrical circuits in DT, this week we chose and made our final switches ready to use.

Next week our afternoon swimming lessons will start and the children seem very excited about this. We are really looking forward to taking the children for this experience, although do expect it to be a tiring two weeks for us all.

This week it's seemed like our own Big Garden Birdwatch has been going on as we've spotted some feathered friends visiting just outside our window. We've enjoyed spotting one particular friend that keeps coming by...

Have a lovely weekend. Mrs Grainger
