What a week! The children have come back ready to learn and very excited about our new environment. Our project will officially kick off next week!

With the help of our animals we have introduced our ELLI learning powers which will help develop the children to understand themselves as a learner. The main power this week is the chameleon. The children have adapted to their new class, teachers and routines brilliantly.

The children have drawn some impressive sea creatures this week trying to focus on using the space and using dark and light lines to make details stand out. They peer critiqued each other using warm (good) and cool feedback (something to improve) to help redraft and make their drawings even better. Here are a few for you to enjoy!

Reading books have come home so it would be great to see the children reading every evening, if possible. We have been recapping different ways of making a number and are trying to learn the written form of numbers.

Next week on Thursday 12th September @ 3:30-3:55 will be 'Meet the teacher'. I will be discussing what goes on in year 1, including what phonic screening involves and you can ask any questions. Teachers will be on the playground to supervise any children with you as it can be hard to fit everyone in the classroom. Hope to see you all there!

If you have your DBS ready for you to come in and help then there is a meeting with Mrs Williams on Thursday 12th September @ 9:00am to finalise the process and we can then discuss any days you can come in to help.

Just a huge thank you for all the support and well wishes from you all it means a lot. Here is to another great year working together! Miss Tyler
