This week we have begun learning about Boudicca and her rebellion against the Romans. Our drama skills were put to the test as we performed short playscripts in character.

In English we have finished reading our class book 'Roman Invasion: my story' and we will be beginning to write our own stories next week.

Our Maths this week has focused on our understanding of 2D shapes and measuring angles. We will be continuing this next week before learning about the properties of 3D shapes.

In preparation for our final project outcome, we have begun to think about how we will make our own films in the style of 'Horrible Histories'. We had a lot of fun watching clips before planning our own.
