Pearl Class Newsletter

This week, using the illustrations in our book 'Where Once We Stood', we have been drawing figures in proportion and in movement. It has been interesting to look in detail at the proportions of the human figure and develop our skills.

We have been writing our newspaper reports on the Moon landing this week, working hard to include examples of direct and reported speech as well as develop a formal style.

In Maths, we have finished our place value block of learning and will be moving on to addition and subtraction next week.
