

Ruby News

Over the last couple of weeks Ruby class have had a naughty visitor in the classroom! Ask them about the Evil Pea if they haven't told you already. The children had a letter from the Police and Supertato asking for their help to find him and put him back in the freezer.

The children have written letters in response to the police and are creating posters to give to other classes to find the Pea!

In addition, this week the children have been halving numbers in different ways e.g. chopping, sharing, and covering half numicon. The class have been using language of measurement in weight, length, capacity, distance, are beginning to come up with their own experiments to investigate the best materials, and shapes to use for our getaway vehicles we will start to make next week.

Please can you send in any cardboard boxes and bottle tops to help us to create!

I have been blown away this week with the children's stories about vegetables in trouble and Supertato coming to the rescue. They then acted them out to show how they can become the characters in their stories.
