Ruby Class Newsletter

Thank you to everyone who came to the Christmas fair and purchased the children's wonderful paintings and delicious shortbread!

In maths, we have been learning all about horizontal and vertical lines. We then progressed on to learning about parallel and perpendicular lines. The children used these new skills to identify different lines in shapes and linked this with our right angle knowledge.

In English, we have competed our rhyming couplet poems. We will be sharing these with Emerald Class next week. We have also written the Christmas story and tried to retell it in the correct order.

This week in DT, we finally tested our egg transportation product. There were a few broken eggs, but we were really impressed with the children's ideas and design skills. In PSHE, we concluded our learning about bullying, with the children discussing hurtful words, consequences and compliments. In PE, we completed our learning in games and gymnastics. The children practised travelling over a partner in a curled or stretched way. In RE, we discussed the difference between religious and non-religious festivals. Home Learning - thank you so much for supporting your child with their wonderful skeleton creations! We have enjoyed sharing them as a class and giving each other feedback.
