

Ruby Class Newsletter

This week in English, we have been planning our diary writing. We began by hot seating, where the children worked in pairs and pretended they were Phileas Fogg. They used questions they had prepared to interview each other about their trip around the world. Then they thought of vocabulary to describe how he felt, what he saw and who he met along the way. The children are looking forward to using these in their writing.

In maths, we have practised adding two-digits and ones, two-digits and tens and two-digits to two-digits. The children have learnt how to use hundred squares, number lines, numicon and dienes to help them with their calculations.
