

Ruby Class News

In English we have been exploring different invitations, looking for features that make an invitation. This will help us when we start to write our own invitations in the coming weeks.

In Phonics I have been spending individual time with the children to assess their knowledge of the phase 5 sounds that we have learnt over year 1. The children's small blue books need to come into school each Friday so we can stick in that week's focus sounds. The purpose of the books is for you to support your child to recognise the sounds and read them within the practice words. This week in Geography we have been finding out about Wales. We enjoyed hearing a story about the Welsh red dragon and hearing the legend that says a giant is buried under Mount Snowdon!

English – exploring invitations to spot the features they all had

Coming up next week	Way to support at home (home learning)
